My dear Mr Forrest

I beg to return you my warmest thanks for your kindness in volunteering your influence with Sir Charles Dilke in my favor. I shall there even tremblingly him by letter, and at the same time, as you are now on friendly terms with him, will no doubt obtain a favorable result. I have also every reason to expect favor from Mr Gladstone, who I feel certain will be glad to hear the name of Keats.

I dont quite understand the sentence in your letter. "I think the pensions are just out, so that there is no immediate chance."

By this time I suppose the Memorial Fund is closed. What how it proceeds, including the £50 you had the goodness to send me.?

In the edition of my brother's works which you are preparing, is there any thing that has hitherto not been published?

The Weekly Times has not yet arrived, but as you say, "better late than never".

With kindest remembrances believe me to remain

Yours most sincerely
Fanny Kemble de Lhuys
